Tuning in with Title I

Title I is a provision of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) in the United States that provides federal funding to schools with high percentages of low-income students. The goal is to ensure that all children receive a high-quality education and have the opportunity to meet challenging state academic standards.

Title I funds can be used for various purposes, including hiring additional staff, providing tutoring, purchasing educational materials, and supporting family engagement initiatives. Schools receiving Title I funds are required to develop plans to improve student achievement, often involving parents and community members in the process.
