FINALS! FINALS! FINALS!

This semester is quickly coming to a close, which means finals are right around the corner. During this hectic time of the year, here are five tips to keep you sane and help you make it to winter break:

- 1. PLAN OUT YOUR TIME ACCORDINGLY - Using planning tools such as calendars and charts ensures you don't have to cram before the big day.
- 2. FIND GOOD STUDY SPOTS - Finding the right space for you is crucial to getting work done, so scope those study spots out.
- 3. TAKE SELF-CARE BREAKS - Whether it means watching a show, scrolling through reels, or taking a power nap, you need self-care breaks - otherwise, you'll burn out fast.
- 4. DON'T CRAM THE NIGHT BEFORE - Light review is the key. Go over your notes, solve application-based problems, and get to bed.
- 5. REWARD YOURSELF WHEN IT'S OVER - everyone deserves a reward after doing something as hard as finals!

Thank you to everyone who attended the library's movie night showing of "Elf". We hope you had a great time. See you at the next movie night!

Did you know...

The largest book published is 7.48 m<sup>2</sup> (80 ft<sup>2</sup> 74 in<sup>2</sup>), and was achieved by iWRITE Literacy Organization, The Bryan Museum, and Ordinary People Change the World (all USA) in Houston, Texas, USA, on 5 November 2022. Based on the bestselling series by Brad Meltzer and Christopher Eliopoulos, the book titled, "I Am Texas" is a compilation of Texas themed stories and artwork by one-thousand students. Organizers plan to tour the book across the state.

Thank you to all reading club participants who attended the last meeting. Please don't forget our next Book Club Meeting on Monday, Jan 22th, after school in the library to discuss the book: "Give me a sign". Hope to see you there!
