Devil's Highway Rhetorical Analysis Triple-Entry Journal

Complete the attached Triple-Entry Journal chart for Devil's Highway. You will have ten total entries. For each entry, you will need to do the following:

IMPORTANT QUOTE	IMPACT UPON AUDIENCE	REPLY AND/OR REBUTTAL
At least one sentence, but less than a page! Important quotes are quotes which are either rich stylistically, make a significant point or argument, provide evidence for a previously-given argument, question a different idea or statement, etc.	Discuss the intended impact of that quote on the target audience. In other words, what is the author trying to make the audience think, feel, or do as a result of this quote? (Impact must go beyond: informing, entertaining, emoting, etc.) What particular words or phrases draw attention and create significance? How so?	What do you think about the quote? Do you agree with that perspective? Why (not)? Perhaps consider connecting to another quote from the text; connecting to real-world experience, news, or events; extending the argument within the quote; or posing a question that the quote induces.
Sample: "In Arizona, critics are more direct Toxic materials appear in jugs that looks like drinking water. Humane Borders' water stations are vandalized, the 300-gallon tanks broken open so they run dry. Small groups of Mexicans are found tied and shot in the head. The Border Patrol is sentimental, though, and they keep building towers" (214).	Sample: Urrea details the opposition to life-saving measures that USBP and other groups have put into place. Juxtaposing the cruelty of lay people against the mercy of the professional Border Patrol members, causes the readers to sympathize with the "illegal immigrants" and those who seek to help them. Despite the paradox/irony, the authorities seek to protect the "illegals."	Sample: I believe that the fact that there are groups who go out of their way to sabotage efforts to save the lives of "walkers" is sickening. While crossing the border illegally is wrong, I think it is encouraging that there are people and groups who work to help save lives. Malicious acts to disrupt or damage the aid resources only serves to harm and kill poor people. But it will not stop the flow of illegal immigration.

Triple-Entry Journal Chart