The following Board Member made comments regarding the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Funds Update: Mark Cramer.

Safety Information

The Board of Education received and reviewed a report on Safety Information.

Superintendent Small made the following comments.

“The safety of our students and staff is a top priority. District 211 continues to work with local police departments and safety consultants to review new school safety practices and technologies. This assessment has continued over the summer.

Though all safety plans are not detailed in public in order to not undermine the effectiveness of the safety measure, I would like to list some key components of our school safety measures.

1. Prevention is the most important component of safety, and it starts with a shared responsibility from the entire community.

Research in school safety illustrates the need for supportive learning environments and communities where all feel supported, valued and connected. Our schools continue to work diligently to connect with students and others at school including staff, activities and athletics. We continue to expand our social emotional learning along with understanding the challenges students bring to school. Our intervention teams including administrators, counselors, psychologists and social workers act quickly to respond, intervene and connect families with additional community supports.

Social media consistently plays a role in security issues and it is vital that parents, students and community members are in tune to unusual social media posts, seeing or hearing statements out of the ordinary and reporting them to either the school or local law enforcement. These situations are extensively and thoroughly investigated in partnership with our local police departments. School administration always informs and partners with law enforcement whenever a threat or concern for safety arises or a student demonstrates concerning behavior.

2. There are safety components of our schools that continue to be in place and evaluated:
 - a. Perimeter control including exterior and interior door locking and door alarms
 - b. Communication systems, PA systems and blue light pull stations to rapidly set emergency messages in motion throughout our large schools
 - c. Armed School Resource Office present daily during school hours
 - d. Threat assessment systems in partnership each local police department and clear and present danger reporting
 - e. Local safety concern access through our iPads and websites which will now have the State's crisis line and national suicide prevention line added to school IDs as additional layers of communication
 - f. External school security consultant assessments and safety meetings with local police two times a year per school and annually as a district
 - g. D211 is an annual partner supporting and organizing the Illinois School Safety conference

Some additional layers of safety that will be implemented in the fall include:

- ID scanning
- Increased control of visitor entry
- Limited exterior entrance availability and increased perimeter door security measures
- Camera system upgrades and
- Continued implementation of student sense of belonging and adult connections.

We ask our students, staff and parents to continue to be open-minded for the new inconveniences that we may incur for the additional layers of safety.

New safety technologies continue to be evaluated in partnership with our security consultants and local law enforcement as they are tested for sites for high schools of 2,300-2,800 people.

There is additional information attached to the agenda as well as the link to the Secret Service Report on averting targeted school violence.”
